CRITERIA FOR MEMBER AGENCIES

1. Operation- Food Pantry must have been opened and serving to the community for a minimum of (6) six months, with set days and hours of operation.
2. Security and maintenance – The agency must implement procedures that will ensure the security and integrity of the food in its designated storage areas.
3. Storage – Storage areas must comply with the following:
 - a. The Agency must have storage space solely specified for food and, if provided, hygiene products.
 - b. The Agency must store food items in a dry clean area.
 - c. Food items should be at least 6 inches off the floor and ideally 6 inches away from walls and ceilings to allow for proper ventilation.
 - d. Must not store cleaning products, personal care items, and health and beauty items in same area as food products.
 - e. Must store cleaning products in areas not accessible to children.
 - f. Must store products on the site indicated in member agency file.
 - g. Must have a fire extinguisher in or near the food storage area.
 - h. Must control rodent or insect problems through regular pest control. We recommend a professional pest control service.
 - i. Must not have leaks, holes, or separations in windows, ceiling, or foundation.
 - j. Must have adequate ventilation, heating and air.
 - k. Must not smell of foul odor or of chemicals.
 - l. Must not have mold or other fungus in or around storage area.
 - m. Must have locks on all entry doors.
 - n. Must store products in designated area that has been approved by a Second Harvest Food Bank Agency Relations Representative.
 - o. Any changes in storage must be approved by a Second Harvest Food Bank Agency Relations Representative.
4. Refrigeration – Thermometers must be placed in refrigerators (40 degrees or below) and freezers (0 degrees or below). Defrost freezers on a regular basis.
5. Record Keeping – The agency must maintain quantitative records of contributions made to the Food Pantry and the number of clients receiving food.

Second Harvest Food Bank requires that all member agencies keep ongoing records that reflect the distribution of product. This information helps to document hunger. Furthermore, these statistics provide valuable information for writing proposals and providing data for the media and government officials. Finally, such information is used to trace products if needed. Many Second Harvest Food Bank member agencies use index cards, notebooks and/or computers to track their clients. Agencies are required to keep records for (4) four years.
6. Collection of Food – There must be a process for the agency to collect community-based donations. The agency must also indicate a commitment to maintain an inventory suitable to its ongoing program.

7. Screening – The agency must have an objective process for determining need and eligibility of food recipients. The agency should have in place an application process and should require recipients to sign for any food or other services received at each distribution.
8. Referral – The agency should inform and assist recipients of other community programs in which they may be entitled.
9. Service area determined – The agency will determine the geographic area the program intends to service.
10. Distribution – The agency should determine what products are needed for a well-balanced food box and provide these to recipients on a uniform basis. An objective procedure for the food distribution must be followed.
11. Monitoring – The agency must agree to periodic monitoring visits by a Second Harvest Food Bank representative.

Second Harvest Food Bank is held to strict food industry standards for proper food storage and handling. State and local health and sanitation inspectors inspect Second Harvest Food Bank, and we are monitored regularly by the staff of Feeding America National Network of Food Banks. Therefore, agencies within the Food Recovery Program must be monitored as well.

Second Harvest Food Bank monitors its member agencies every 12- 24 months. Monitoring appointments are made in advance with the agency's director or food service supervisor. However, surprise visits are often made.

Monitoring is essential in maintaining high sanitation standards and current data on your agency. Any personnel changes that occur in between monitoring visits should be reported to Second Harvest Food Bank on agency letterhead, or the Agency Update form provided by Second Harvest Food Bank.

12. Funding – An agency cannot be 100% government or grant funded.
13. Distribution Fee –The agency must agree to pay the distribution shared maintenance fee by an agency check. NO CASH OR PERSONAL CHECKS ARE ACCEPTED. All invoices are "Due Upon Receipt." Any invoice over 30 days is levied with a finance charge.

Once the application and accompanying documentation have been received, someone in the Second Harvest Food Bank Agency Relations Department will contact you.

If the application is incomplete and other information is requested, the application will remain on file for six (6) months until all documentation is complete. If the file remains incomplete after six months, a new application will have to be submitted.

Once the application is complete, you will be contacted in order to schedule an inspection of your organization's facilities. The appointment for the inspection will be made within sixty (60) days. Failure to keep this appointment will result in dismissal of the application.
